

'Phone Strike Date Set

Talks Today Are Aimed at Heading It Off; No Comment From Gov. Smith

POINT CLEAR, Ala., 31—(P)—Gov. Forrest Smith today declined to indicate whether he will invoke Missouri's "Little Taft-Hartley" law if a nationwide telephone strike is called.

The governor is vacationing on the Alabama gulf coast. He was asked if he would use Missouri's utility anti-strike law to avert a state tieup, and if he would consider it a work stoppage if Bell Telephone employees refused to cross a Western Electric picket line.

"I don't care to say anything about that now," Smith replied. "I'm out of touch with conditions, and I want to be on the ground and have full information before I make any statement."

"I expect to be in Jefferson City next Monday."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(P)—The government's top conciliators met today with the leader of the CIO Communications Workers. Their talks were aimed at heading off a nation-wide telephone strike called for Feb. 8.

William N. Margolis, associate director, and Peter Seitz, general counsel, represented the Federal Conciliation Service. They held an hour-long session with President Joseph A. Beirne of the communications workers.

Beirne said his union would agree to "any proposal which would resolve this dispute." He told reporters the discussion had centered on arbitration.

Margolis and Seitz said that they had concentrated on arbitration talks because "this is one proposal which is available as a working basis in all negotiations."

Companies Object
One union official has said the unions involved had offered to submit their demands to arbitration but that the companies have refused.

The 100,000 workers poised to strike at 6 a. m. (local time) Feb. 8 are in eight divisions of the union whose contracts have expired without progress toward negotiating a new one.

Beirne said after the conciliation meeting that while the union formerly sought a nation-wide contract, it is pushing this year for settlements in its local areas. The American Telephone and Telegraph Co., can "suggest" the settlements or the acceptance of local arbitration, Beirne said.

Beirne has been openly hopeful of more effective action this time than in the last big dispute of workers with the Bell Telephone system.

For one thing, the communications workers then were a loosely organized group and a strike ran for six weeks, with the company keeping the dial telephone equipment running with little public inconvenience.

This time, the union has the backing it can claim as a CIO member union. Also Beirne and his associates have devised a plan for unionists to keep the lines jammed with call after call, if necessary. It was pledged, however, to maintain emergency service for health, fire, police and other special needs.

The first strike hour—6 a. m. local time a week from tomorrow—will find 100,000 workers on strike in scattered unions across the country if the dispute is not otherwise settled by that time.

Some 200,000 others, who are delayed from striking themselves by contract provisions until March 1, are expected to observe the picket lines of the first group out, union officials said.

The union has not said exactly what its wage demands are. It wants a 35-hour work week as compared with the present 40 hours, better pension and vacation benefits and reduction of the eight-year apprenticeship period.

The union said that telephone wage levels, both in relation to prices and in relation to wages in other industries, "have grown progressively worse for the past ten years." It said operators set around $32 a week to a maximum of $52 a week in eight years.

Truman Calls For 70-Day Coal Deadlock

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(P)—President Truman today called for a 70-day truce in the coal mining deadlock while presidential fact finders investigate.

He proposed to act outside the union-hated Taft-Hartley act, following the same pattern he used in last year's steel strike.

In messages to the United Mine Workers and leading operator groups, Mr. Truman asked that they agree to:

1. Seventy days of full coal production beginning on February 6.

2. An investigation by a presidential board of three which would be under instructions to make recommendations within 60 days for a settlement of the mining contract dispute.

Neither side would be bound to accept the board's recommendations.

The president asked for replies to his proposal by noon Saturday, Feb. 4.

Neal Reyburn Tells Club of Pre-fab Houses

Lieut. Gov. Blair Optimist Speaker At Next Meeting

Sedalia Optimists at their noon meeting today at the Bothwell Hotel, were given information on pre-fab housing. Frank Mehl, president was in charge of the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by Lee Deeson.

Neal Reyburn, president of the Home Building Corporation, told Optimists that there are 50 employees working at the plant in Sedalia. These employees are members of six different crafts. At the present time the rate of production at the factory is between twelve and eighteen per month. It is expected to increase this production in the coming year to one unit per day.

Last Year's Production
Mr. Reyburn stated that about 50,000 pre-fab houses, that is package jobs built completely in factories were produced last year. Pre-fabrication has also appeared in housing generally and in time he said, it is expected that the majority of houses in the country will either be completely or to a certain extent pre-fabricated.

Prefabrication, in time, with increased production will reduce the cost of housing he added.

Following the meeting, Mr. Reyburn, answered questions of fellow members, regarding costs, plans and methods used in the building of pre-fabricated houses.

Rev. W. C. Bessemer, was a guest of Dan Doty at today's meeting. Optimists were reminded that the principal speaker at the noon meeting February 7th, will be Lieut. James T. Blair.

Population Guess Contest

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 31—(P)—A population guess contest based on this year's census is under way here.

It's sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with a first prize of $25 being offered.

Managing Director Louis Reps says he already has 21 entries.

He's keeping the guesses confidential until the winner is announced, probably in July.

They're all confidential except one, that is. A woman in Arkansas guessed 35,000. According to the 1940 census, Springfield had a population of 61,238.

Approved Record Budget

PARIS, Jan. 31—(P)—The French national assembly today approved a record budget for 1950 and gave Premier Georges Bidault a new vote of confidence.

Red Cross is Preparing for the Opening of Swimming Pools

A meeting was held at the Red Cross office Saturday morning for the purpose of presenting instructor certificates in safety services and to discuss the program the Red Cross will put on during the opening of the two new swimming pools at Liberty and Hubbard parks May 26 and 27.

The meeting was called by Michael Wolfel, chairman of safety services, who presented instructor certificates to six teachers of Hubbard high school. Howard S. Broadbent, Miss. Mary Jane Cox, Columbus H. Gooch, Miss Geraldine Jones, Mrs. Dorothy Allene Lee and Miss Mary Louise Miller.

The above instructors plan to teach students at Hubbard and other interested persons, instructions on first aid. Two who received certificates, Miss Geraldine Jones and Columbus H. Gooch, are now qualified to become members of the mobile unit, which will allow them to carry First Aid kits in their automobiles and render first aid whenever the necessity arises.

Prepare USS Missouri For Pull Off

A navy tug is shown attaching a submarine pontoon to the side of the stranded battleship Missouri in preparation for a test pull-off near Norfolk, Va., on Jan. 31. A major attempt to free the ship will be made Feb. 2. This official navy photo was made Jan. 28. (AP Wirephoto)

'Missouri' Pull is Over, But They'll Try Again Tomorrow

By Harry Nash
ABOARD THE BATTLESHIP MISSOURI OFF NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31—(P)—Another attempt to float this grounded battleship failed today and salvage experts said "we believe we are hung on a rock."

Rear Admiral Homer N. Wallin told reporters the failure of tugs, beach gear exerting some 1,000 tons of pull indicated that "probably a large rock has dented the ship's bottom and keeps her from riding over it."

The boss of the salvage job, Rear Admiral Allan E. Smith, said another attempt—the fifth since—the Big Mo ran aground on a Chesapeake Bay shoal January 17—will be made tomorrow morning. If that try fails still another attempt will be made Thursday.

Today's operation, described as a "coordination rehearsal" for Thursday's scheduled effort began at 5:45 a. m. and was called off at 7:30 a. m.

Moved One Degree
The Missouri's bow moved one degree to starboard—the right—but she did not move an inch toward the deep water that lies so tantalizingly near, only a half mile astern.

Faces of officers and men were grim as the 45,000-ton ship stubbornly resisted the combined pulling power of 13 tugs, two heavy duty salvage ships and mine beach gear rigs each exerting a pulling force of some 80 tons.

A fine rain fell and the heavy fog blanketed the bay throughout the operation.

The commanding officer of the Missouri, Captain William D. Brown, witnessed the operation from the conning tower. He remained silent most of the time. Once, at 7:17 a. m., he told a reporter: "She is ready to come now. All she needs is a good shaking or something to twist her from the sand."

Several Factors Involved
Admiral Smith said several factors contributed to the failure of today's try, which despite its rehearsal tag turned into an all-out refloating attempt. These factors, he said were:

"A line from the Missouri to one tug carried away at a crucial moment; divers were able to sling only four of six submarine salvage pontoons scheduled to have been rigged beneath the Missouri's stern and one of the nine beach gear rigs did not get in its full pulling effect."

"There is no question about the Missouri's getting off," Smith said. "It will just require careful planning and hard work."

He added that should tomorrow's attempt fail two new methods will be employed Thursday.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31—(P)
—A news broadcast from a small boat near the mud-bound battleship Missouri today interrupted its report of salvage operations for a commercial.

The commercial said that the sponsor, a transfer company, probably couldn't move the Missouri but it was ready and able—in fact would be delighted—to take care of any other moving needs that Norfolk civilians or navy people might have.

Elevator Engineers Trapped in One

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 31—(P)—Seven engineers, all experts on elevators, were on their way to lecture on elevators last night, they didn't make it. They were trapped for hours in a stalled elevator.

Mechanics had to liberate the engineers, who had overlooked a sign warning that the elevator was built for a maximum of six persons.

To Springfield Post

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 31—(P)—Maj. Harry Strissel of St. Louis will arrive here tomorrow to become commander of Springfield's Salvation Army post. He will succeed Maj. George Paul, who will become minister of a church at Royal Oak, Mich.

Woman Rushed To Hospital

Lee Paxton, 202 East Fifth street, driver of a Yellow Cab, at 4:00 o'clock this morning radioed to his office, "Call the police and tell them I'm on an emergency from Broadway and Park to the Bothwell hospital." Then he sped east on Broadway enroute to the hospital with Mrs. Fred Peterson, 16, of Knob Noster who feared her baby would be born before she could reach the hospital.

A son was born to Mrs. Peterson at 4:30 barely a half hour after reaching the hospital. Both mother and son are reported as getting along fine.

Mrs. Peterson was being driven to the hospital by her sister, Mrs. Ruth Elaine McMurry and at Broadway and Park avenue the car ran out of gasoline. About that time Paxton drove by in his cab and seeing the plight of the women, offered to take the expectant mother to the hospital. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher attended Mrs. Peterson.

The father, according to the hospital report, is working in Iowa.

Quintuplet Girls Born

LUCCA, Italy, Jan. 31—(P)—Quintuplet girls were born Saturday to a 30-year old Lucca housewife but none survived.

The mother, Maria Bianchi, is doing well, the hospital said.

Arrest Three Priests

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 31—(P)—Three Jesuit priests have been arrested in Warsaw, the Rome agency of information (ARI) which specializes in Catholic news, reported today.

The three were arrested for not adhering to the government decree dissolving religious congregations, the agency said.

Pilot Fights Snow to Report Plane is Down

Crashed While Hunting for Plane With 44 Aboard

By Lachlan Mac Donald
Anchorage, Alaska, Times Reporter

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Jan. 31—(P)—Backtracking on an heroic search pilot's trail through waist deep snow led a rescue party to five other crash survivors early today as the great C-54 plane search pressed on.

The survivors, three reported injured and the other two "all right," were being brought to a military camp hospital this morning.

They crashed 21 miles south of this Yukon base yesterday while engaged with more than 50 other planes in the search for a missing U. S. Air Force C-54 transport with 44 aboard.

The rescue party slogged through five miles of waist deep snow to the C-47 search plane crash scene at the base of isolated Caribou Mountain.

Anchorage, Alaska Times Reporter

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Jan. 31—(P)—An heroic search pilot, his face broke and bloody, fought through deep snow and tangled forest late yesterday to report his plane had crashed 21 miles to the south. Three of the men he left behind were injured. He said two others were "all right."

The U. S. Air Force C-47 went down while engaged in the north country's greatest aerial mercy mission—the hunt for a USAF C-54 which dropped from sight last Thursday with 44 persons aboard.

Lt. Charles R. Harden, pilot of the C-47, which arrived here Sunday from Elmendorf Field, Anchorage, Alaska, was brought in last night by two civilian employees of the U. S. Engineers. They picked him up on the narrow Carcross road 21 miles below this principal Yukon air base.

Reported Plane Down
"My plane is down," he wearily told search officials. He placed the crash scene as five miles east of the spot where he was found.

A ground rescue crew headed by Lt. Edwin Gulzinski, Camp Carson, Colo., left immediately for the site. They were expected to reach the survivors sometime this morning.

Planes circled over the wreckage throughout the night to assure the men that help was on the way.

How seriously three of the men were injured was not known. Harden was unable to tell. Among the two who escaped with shock and minor bruises as Jack Borges, of the Midnight Sun Broadcasting Co., Anchorage, who was aboard as a civilian observer. Names of the others were not learned, but all were crewmen from Elmendorf Field.

The swift moving rescue operation temporarily eclipsed the search for the C-54 which disappeared on a homeward flight from Anchorage to Biggs Field, El Paso, Tex.

Airlines Profit

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31—(P)—Mid-Continent Airlines, Inc., announced here a net profit of $313,543 for 1949 compared with $104,070 the previous year.

The profits are subject to change when audited.

Stresses Solvency, Security

Former Senator Raymond E. Willis, McKinley Banquet Speaker

A Republican program based on solvency, sanity, safety and security was outlined Monday night by Raymond E. Willis, former U. S. senator from Indiana, in a speech at the annual McKinley day banquet in the ambassador room at Hotel Bothwell.

Chairman of the Pettis County Republican committee, Carl G. Schrader, presided over the session and the invocation was given by the Rev. C. Arthur Freeburg of the Trinity Lutheran church.

A quartet from the Sedalia Men's Choral club composed of Ad Taylor, Charles Maggard, Al Domingue and Dean Bindrup with accompanist Miss Geraldine Teufel presented the following numbers: "Home," "Down in the Cherry Orchard," "Nola" and "Moonglow."

Willis declared that the party's duty in the coming campaign "is to make sure that every American citizen is made aware of the dangers which confront this country and be persuaded to register his decision at the polls."

This message, he said, "must be concise, crystal clear and devoid of 'confusions which have too often weakened our past efforts.'"

Program Outlined

He then outlined his four-point program: Solvency: "This government can be returned to solvency if we limit our expenditures to the amount that we can really be expected to receive in taxes. The Republican party did it that way after World War I, and it can be done again if the welfare of the nation is placed above personal power and political office holding."

Sanity: "The Republican party must offer to the voters of the country a firm stand upon foreign affairs, and that stand must make it crystal clear that the foreign policy of America has for its main purpose the protection of the welfare of America, and the lives of its soldiers and diplomats at any place in the world wherever they may be stationed."

Safety: "We should have the best equipped Army, the best Navy and the best Air Force that our military leaders can devise."

Security: "It should be made clear to all our people that social security, as commonly understood, is only a supplementary help in times of less earning capacity. Real security is found in the strength which the individual alone can build himself in a free country."

At the outset of his talk, Willis said that when he was in the Senate he had the friendly and helpful assistance of Harry Truman, but added:

"I most fervently hope that when they get the 'Mighty Mo' out of the mud of Chesapeake Bay, some power may be found to do the more difficult job of getting the captain of the ship of state freed from the intellectuals, the theorists, the selfish profiteers, the pinkos, the socialists, the communists, grifters, and other barbaques, that appear to cling so tenaciously to him. x x x"

In his opening remarks he said: "The Republican party was born almost a century ago to maintain the right of freedom, of equality of opportunity, and of justice for an oppressed segment of our people. In no other part of our country was that challenge more earnestly debated than right here in Missouri. From that day on, the Republican party has ever been the champion of freedom, of equality of opportunity, and of justice for all."

72-Year-Old Islander Giving Himself Back to The Indians

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Jan. 31—(P)—After ten years, vigorous, bald James V. McGimsey, a 20th century Robinson Crusoe, has tasted civilization. That's why he's giving himself back to the Indians.

The 72-year-old islander has been visiting a niece and nephew here for the past three months. Everybody has been grand to him in the states, he admits, but still he's lonesome.

So, in March McGimsey says, he'll return to his Caribbean paradise where it costs him only $40 a month to live as the only white man among 40,000 San Blas Indians.

His Shangri-la is Maua Cay, studded with palms and protruding as a mere dot in the ocean 12 miles off the coast of Panama.

There's romance there. There

Waitress Throws Dishes, Now Uses Tin Ones

ATLANTA, Jan. 31—(P)—A waitress who had a desire to throw dishes will be handling only tin cups and plates for the next 15 months.

Criminal Court Judge Charles Bruce sentenced Ruth Shirley, 36, to that length of time yesterday. Breaking nine dollars worth of dishes in a cafe amounted to malicious mischief, the court held.

Miss Shirley, employed as a waitress at another restaurant, said she broke the dishes because the owner refused to serve her.

"And being a waitress, I know what it takes to break a restaurant man's heart!" piped Miss Shirley.

"I always have had a desire to throw dishes when they couldn't take it out of my salary."

Rich Rice Land Hot Spot in The Cold War

Russians Resume 'Creeping Blockade' In Germany

By the Associated Press

France looks on the recognition by Russia of the anti-French Ho Chi-Minh regime in Indo-China as "an act of very great gravity."

The Soviet venture into the explosive Indo-Chinese situation made that Far Eastern rubber and rice rich land a hot spot in the cold war.

Russia has denounced the French-supported Bao Dai regime as a "puppet government" representing only a small group of reactionaries.

Paris observers said Russian support of the Communist-led rebel forces in Indo-China might lead to another situation like Greece, where American arms finally tipped the scales against the Communist guerrillas.

Message to Bao Dai

The Russian diplomatic move came only a few hours after a report from Washington said Secretary of State Dean Acheson had sent greetings to Bao Dai expressing the hope of establishing closer relations. Britain is expected to recognize Bao Dai next week and the United States, it was anticipated, would follow suit.

A French foreign office source said the Russian move was "unnecessary" and complicated the situation considerably. He criticized Russia for recognizing "the enemies of France."

The Indo-Chinese situation is similar to that in Indonesia before the Dutch gave the Indonesians their independence. The forces under Ho are nationalists fighting for political separation from the French. France's parliament last week granted the government of Bao Dai considerable autonomous powers.

Resumed Blockade

The Russians today resumed their "creeping blockade" of the east-west truck traffic in Germany. There was no reason given for the renewal of the blockade which had been lifted yesterday.

Western officials in Berlin who have repeatedly protested the stalling actions of the Russians said the matter would have to be settled by the western high commissioners and the Soviet commander, Gen. Vassily Chuikov.

To End Strike

CARLEBAD, N. M., Jan. 31—(P)—Potash workers have agreed to end a 2½-month strike against three firms here, a company spokesman announced today.

Rufus Poole, speaking for the producers, said he was notified early this morning that the strikers would resume work provided the companies would stop hiring non-union replacements.

Hydrogen Bomb Is Ordered

Truman Wants to Prepare Country To Defend Itself Against Aggressor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(P)—President Truman today told the Atomic Energy Commission to work on the "so-called hydrogen or super-bomb."

He said in a 120-word statement that he has ordered the AEC to continue work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the super bomb, because of his responsibility "to see to it that our country is able to defend itself against any possible aggressor."

He added that this work will be pursued on a basis consistent with American plans for peace and security.

The development of atomic weapons is to continue, the president directed, "until a satisfactory plan for international control of atomic energy is achieved."

This is his statement launching the government officially into a hunt for a new weapon perhaps as much as 1,000 times as powerful as the original A-bomb.

His Responsibility

"It is part of my responsibility as commander-in-chief of the armed forces to see to it that our country is able to defend itself against any possible aggressor."

"Accordingly, I have directed the atomic energy commission to continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the so-called hydrogen or super-bomb. Like all other work in the field of atomic weapons, it is being and will be carried forward on a basis consistent with the over-all objectives of our program for peace and security."

"This we shall continue to do until a satisfactory plan for international control of atomic energy is achieved. We shall also continue to examine all those factors that affect our program for peace and this country's security."

Debated For Some Time

The question of whether the United States should undertake production of the bomb has been under behind-the-scenes debate for at least four months—perhaps longer.

A government committee has considered it as well as key members of congress.

The senate-house atomic committee has held a series of meetings about it, talking with military leaders, scientists and others.

So far as has been disclosed, this committee has never taken a formal vote but there have been plain indications that a majority of the group favors trying to develop the bomb.

The cost of the project has been variously estimated up to $4,000,000,000.

But some estimates have run as low as $100,000,000.

Must Get Ahead of Russia

A number of prominent legislators in recent days have joined the clamor for going ahead with the new weapon. Mostly, they argue it is necessary in order to get the jump on Russia.

The Russians have created an atomic explosion and are believed to be making A-bombs similar to those the United States used against Japan.

The feeling among those in this country concerned with atomic matter is that the Soviets are

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round State Department, Pentagon And Atomic Commission Alerted For a Moscow 'Peace Offensive'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—Before President Truman cut loose against tax evaders in his message to Congress he got some rugged pointers from Representative John Dingell of Michigan.

"The costliest 'economy' move ever made by Congress was when it lopped 7,000 Internal Revenue agents off the payroll two years ago," Dingell told the President. "This was an open invitation to dishonest taxpayers to cheat the government.

"We saved $20,000,000 by that cut, but it cost the government about $600,000,000 in uncollected taxes. In other words, for every dollar saved by the penny-pinchers in Congress we lost $30 in tax frauds."

Dingell added that most of the discharged agents have been rehired, "but we are still paying for the mistake." As a result of the cut, he said, some 300,000 cases of tax frauds, many of which were close to completion, had to be dropped or pigeonholed by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Millikin Joke

Solemn-looking Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado is a conservative Republican but he delights in cracking sly jokes about the national G.O.P. leadership.

A few days ago, Senator Millikin was discussing a big hue and cry in his home state of Colorado over the proposed Echo Park dam. One citizens' group complained the dam would cover up "dinosaur beds."

"Ah well," sighed Millikin, "if the beds aren't covered, the Republicans will come in and dig up the bones of a dinosaur and make him the national chairman."

"Peace" Offensive

The State Department, Pentagon and Atomic Commission have been alerted to a "peace offensive" from Moscow, in which the Russians would pretend to agree to international control. It might come in a dramatic announcement from the Kremlin that the U.S.S.R. had perfected a "hydrogen bomb.

The strategy behind the "peace offensive" is to confuse American opinion and delay the H-bomb project. The Russians may say, for example, we know how to make the H-bomb, but for humanity's sake we won't make one of you don't.

All this came up at a secret session of the National Security Council at which President Truman made it clear that we cannot agree to any international control plan that does not include inspection.

Meanwhile, it is definitely established that the theory of the hydrogen bomb is no secret. The first "leak" from the U.S. was an article by John McCloy, then asst. secy. of war, in 1946 revealing we had plans for such a bomb. The piece was written for an obscure Army ordinance publication.

Furthermore, Senator Douglas of Illinois, in no way connected with atomic research, explained to a bug-eyed atomic official the whole theory of the H-bomb, and he had merely figured it from reading Einstein and the Smyth report.

Douglas, incidentally, said that he had pondered long over the hydrogen bomb and had come to the conclusion we must make the bomb.

Meanwhile, Chairman Lillenthal will soon be available for a lecture tour in opposition to the H-bomb.

Miners Grumble

A $33-a-week cut in wages and a sick industry are back of the swelling chorus of miners' grumbles against their onetime god, John L. Lewis.

The revolt against the aging Lewis is so strong in Pennsylvania and West Virginia that his old crony, CIO president Phil Murray, could snatch the miners away from him. Murray is a former UMW lieutenant who broke with Lewis.

The miners are chiefly up in arms over the three-day week which reduces their take-home pay from $78 a week to $45, but the three-day week is a desperate move by Lewis and the operators—whom he curses in public and talks with in private—to stave off anarchy and a cut-throat price war in an ailing industry.

Coal Industry Sickness

Studies by the Bureau of Mines—locked up in the files so they won't be used in the Lewis name-calling battles—reveal how sick the industry is. Privately, the bureau expects to see a return of the ghost towns that haunted the coal areas in the '30's.

The trouble with coal is:

1. Over capacity.
2. High cost.
3. Competition from natural gas and oil.

In the war years, when Nazi subs were sinking oil transports, the railroads used 135,000,000 tons of bituminous coal a year—now the railroads have cut to 70,000,000 tons.

In the home-heating field, while new residences have gone up at an amazing rate, coal consumption has gone down slightly. This is because oil and natural-gas heating is being installed in new buildings. Particularly along the eastern seaboard.

A surplus of oil from the Middle Eastern and Southern American fields plus the new attempt by the British to shut out American oil have increased oil surplus in this country.

In addition, 25,000 miles of natural gas pipelines have been approved by the Federal Power Commission.

All this is why a five-day week in the coal fields would pile a surplus of coal above ground and lead to what Lewis and the operators secretly fear—a cutthroat price war that would drive all but the most efficient operators out of business.

Actually—and only a few people know this—the coal industry as a whole has had only 8 good years in the last 25 and those were by-product of the war.

Pify The Helpless Pedestrian; He's Sport for Wild Motorists

By Bruce Blossat

A convertible skidded to a stop at a red light the other day in San Antonio, Tex. It halted smack in the pedestrian cross walk.

A man in work clothes, starting across the street, angrily demanded that the woman driver back up. There was room for her to do that, but her only response was: "Mind your own business."

Whereupon the infuriated pedestrian stepped onto the convertible's running board, next to its fender, then to the hood, and so down the other side. His heavy-soled shoes ground big dents into the hood and fenders. As the woman stared open-mouthed, he strolled nonchalantly off.

We don't like to condone wilful property damage, but we confess to a grudging admiration for this pedestrian's defiant assertion of his rights. In many of our cities today, the man on foot is a forlorn orphan. Too often he seems sadly neglected even in those communities whose traffic laws are designed to favor him.

Big towns like New York and Chicago are particularly thoughtless of him. Stepping off a curb in their downtown areas means plunging into a man-trap of lumbering trucks and whizzing cars, buses and taxis. Obviously, the pedestrian's presence on the street is hotly resented.

Even having the "advantage" of the red light is of little real help in crossing a street. Cars making right or left-hand turns off intersecting streets come lurching around the corner, seemingly drawn by a magnet to the nearest knot of people-on-foot.

You can almost hear the triumphant motorist, having dispersed a group at one corner, muttering to himself: 'Okay, set 'em up at the next intersection!'

There's more than just safety at stake. As anyone knows who has ever sprinted for the curb like a scared rabbit, the harassed pedestrian feels a little short on human dignity at that moment.

Until our cities begin putting stiff limits on this wildly irresponsible game of pedestrian chasng, they can hardly claim to be the guardians either of safety or elemental human dignity.

Words That Woo Business Need Backing by Action

President Truman plainly wants business to be happier. He doesn't want its leaders to feel he's gunning for them simply because he's promoting the Fair Deal.

In recent proof of this attitude we have the annual report of his Council of Economic Advisers. Mr. Truman approved the document and two of his top aides had a hand in shaping it.

It's a surprising report. At a time when businessmen are talking as if they were definitely on the run before advancing big government, the President has chosen to reassure them in the friendliest and most complimentary words to come out of the White House since the old Republican days.

Business has been fearful its freedom might be snuffed out by the "creeping socialism" it sees in a welfare state. Mr. Truman's advisers say this country is firmly committed to freedom for both business and government—that each has a distinct contribution to make toward economic well-being.

The advisers not only say the two may live together in harmony. They contend this co-operation already exists. They credit both business and government for the highly successful war effort and for what they consider the enlightened policies that have kept the economy on relatively even keel since the war.

On the other hand, the report blames both businessmen and statesmen for the Great Depression. Heretofore it has usually been the former who bore the full weight of criticism for that collapse.

Most remarkable of all, the advisers openly urge business to disagree with government. They argue that business SHOULD be conservative—wary about tossing away workable ideas before better ones have been clearly tested. A clash of views, they say, actually is beneficial to the nation, especially when undertaken in "good spirit."

It remains to be seen how business will react to these pats on the back. Probably its leaders will look for some new sign from the Administration that the advisers' talk of co-operation is more than words.

Should Mr. Truman make that sign, businessmen perhaps will feel greater encouragement than they have for many a year. But the President has cut out a hard task for himself in this effort to brighten every corner.

• So They Say

It is my candid judgment that the American people in 1950, and 1952, and throughout the years of the future will confirm overwhelmingly their satisfaction with the contribution we (Democrats) are making to the general welfare of our own people and to the peace of the world.

—Vice President Alben Barkley.

The underworld works together between the various cities. Frank Costello, for example, says he works only where he is "tolerated," but in order to be tolerated he must be allied with someone in power.

Luke 9:23—24; Rom. 12:1; I Thess. 5:23

THE FOURTH STEP

We come now to the most important step of all: (4) Turn over to Christ yourself. This is the crucial point, and if you bungle this you block the process. Between two persons there is no love without an inward self-surrender to each other. If either one withholds the essential self from the other, love is blocked; it will not spring up no matter how hard you try to love around and past that core of an unsundered self. So between you and God there can be no love without an inward self-surrender. Not the surrender of this thing or that thing, but the surrender of you, the essential you.

A brilliant woman came to the end of her resources. Her self-centered life had run through its inner assets. She was bankrupt. She saw clearly that the self would have to resign to find itself. But the struggle was great. It always is. One man put it this way: "There were many battles fought on great fields, but there was never a harder one than that between myself and myself in that little room." I told this woman that the initial battle was the hardest, that it takes twice as much for an airplane to get off the earth as it does for it to fly. We bowed in prayer. At the close of that prayer she opened her eyes and said, "But I'm off!" She had broken with the old life. And there was wonderful release. She gave me her whiskey bottle and her gold cigarette case, saying, "I have no more use for them." She gave up her sleeping tablets too. She let go all trutches.

For several days this woman was supremely happy—and then a cloud. "I am like a child adopted into a new family; everything is beautiful, but one thing is lacking—I cannot see my father's face." And then the reason for it dawned. 'She had given her whiskey bottle and her cigarette case in lieu of herself. She had tried to buy off God with these! When she saw what had happened she hastened to add herself to the bottle and the case; and then did she see her Father's face? Yes, with nothing between! And now she is radiantly happy. She lost a tangled, snarled-up self and found a united, released, and happy self.

O God, I see that I cannot buy Thee off—Thou relentless Lover. Thou dost want the inmost shrine—myself. So I vacate and give it to Thee. For I have no right to the Throne. I am not God—Thou art. So I abdicate and give Thee supreme charge. Thou dost command. I obey. It is done! Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Drug Treatments Help Those Attacked by Roundworms

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

There are a great many parasites known as roundworms. Many of them live in water, mud or ordinary soil and do not attack human beings. Several, however, do invade the human body. One of these is responsible for the disease known as trichinosis. Another is the so-called hookworm which was formerly a common cause of disease in the southern sections of the United States. Still another is the whipworm which is more common in the warm moist regions of the world.

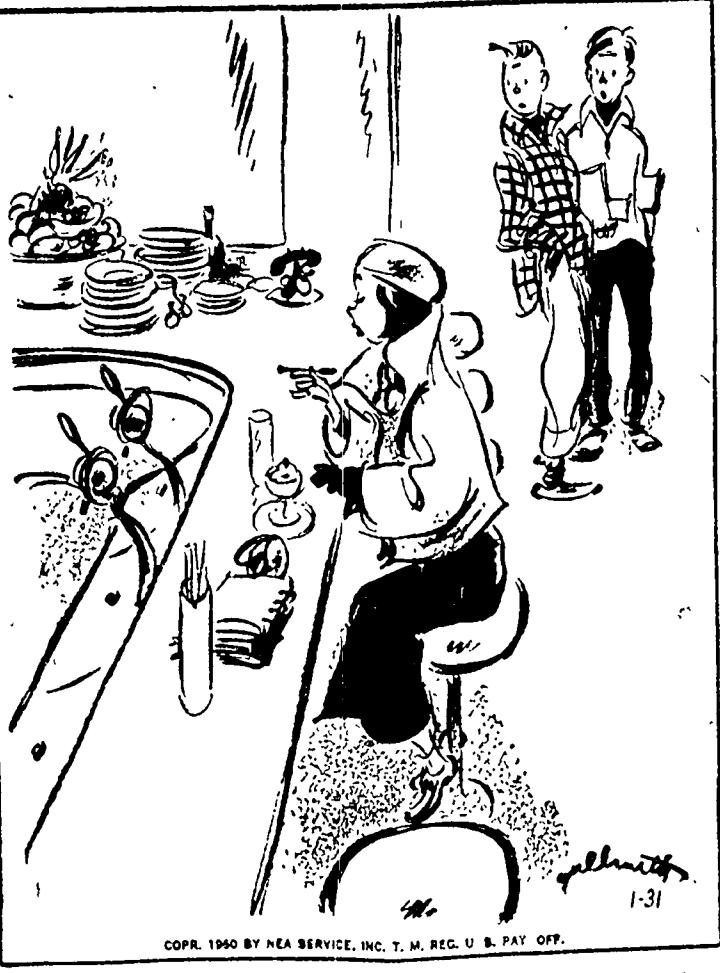

All of these roundworms belong to the same general class and most of those mentioned, with the exception of the hookworm, ordinarily enter the human body through the mouth. Once introduced into the body, they develop in the small intestines. The hatched eggs or larvae then follow different courses depending on the kind of worm.

Some may grow directly into the adult worm in the bowel and others may migrate through the lungs. Hookworm and at least one other variety of roundworm enter the skin and travel through the lungs before reaching the intestines.

Some attacks by roundworms can be quite successfully treated but it is always better to prevent than treat. Those who enter the body through the mouth with food can be killed ahead of time by proper cooking of pork or other foods.

End of a Chapter

THE STORY: Soon after taking the job of secretary to the popular writer "Jo Palgrave," who is really Mrs. Muriel Halleck, Alice Pine senses a tension between Muriel and her husband, Brent. Village gossip with Molly Tremayne holds up Brent as a sincere and shiftless. However, Alice decides not to pry into private lives. She does, however, take an interest in four-year-old Rick, the adopted son of the Hallecks. On the afternoon off of the mink Stella, Alice plays nursemaid and takes Rick to the beach. There Alice meets Brent, who is an artist. Brent angers her with his aridonic attitude. But Brent insists that she sit down on the sand beside him.

VIII

ALICE PINE looked at Brent Halleck almost pityingly. His habitual mockery did not deceive her or, unquestionably, anyone else. It was only a poor camouflage for an inner and esoteric discontent.

"We were talking about Rick," Alice reminded him.

"So we were. Well, your ideas to the contrary, I'm pretty fond of the little hoodlum. Especially since I'll never—"

He stopped, face away from her. "You were right a moment ago, Alice. I brought this up. I shouldn't have."

For over a month Alice Pine had allowed herself to be avidly curious about Brent. But now she was strangely reluctant to continue the longest conversation she had ever had with him. She did not understand the reluctance. It was almost—though the idea seemed incongruous—as if she were afraid of what Brent might say to her. She started to rise.

His hand touched her arm, lightly. "Please don't go! You'll be going soon enough, in the normal course of events."

The remark might have made her morose, ill-at-ease had he not smiled suddenly. An open smile, free of bitterness and cynicism. It changed the whole character of his face. Momentarily, he looked boyish, even happy.

"I may go sooner than I expect," she said. "Muriel's simply racing through her book."

Brent frowned. "Sorry to hear that."

"Sorry? When it'll probably be a best seller? You ought to be very proud of her, Mr. Hal—er, Brent."

"Oh, I am." He was back to normal, sarcasm edging his tone. "Cleverest woman I know."

ALICE shrugged. It had occurred to her some time ago that, possibly, Brent was a trifle jealous of his wife's success. She got up, despite the hand on her sweater sleeve. "May I look at your picture?"

He waved negligently. "Help yourself. You won't like it, though."

The scene beyond the easel was one of lightness and brightness. Blue water aglint with sunshine; a tiny island not far off shore, green, fresh-looking; the distant white triangle of a sail. But Brent Halleck had chosen to see these things darkly.

He had painted water nearly black, a sinister sweep of it. The trees of the island were dull, and twisted grotesquely. In the background sailed a desolate gray ghost-boat, instead of the clean live thing of reality.

"Well?"

She turned from the canvas.

"Want my real opinion?"

"No other's any good."

"All right. It doesn't look much like Long Island Sound, on a wonderful clear day."

"So?" His eyes were amused. "Maybe I don't think the day's so swell."

That, Alice thought, was probably the truth. Brent, with his somber perversity, wouldn't be impressed by blue-and-gold weather. Storminess doubtless suited him better.

"I suppose," she said, "that it's all in the way you see things! Now I have to go."

"No hurry." But he made no active effort to detain her.

She called to Rick and went away. Her longest conversation with Brent Halleck had left him still an enigma.

IF Brent preferred storminess, that night was cut to his order. By dusk an ominous cloudbank had gathered in the east and thunder muttered distantly. The Sound was now a restless, dun-colored waste. Alice and Muriel played double Canfield, and Brent read a novel, during an evening in which thunder crept closer. Through the living room windows jagged lightning was intermittently visible, gashing the sky.

Once, after a blinding flash, Muriel shivered. "Brent," she said, "do pull the curtains!"

He gave her a twisted grin. "Afraid? It's nowhere near us yet."

"Do you always have to argue, Brent?" Annoyance crept into Muriel's voice.

Brent got up, pulled window cords. "Now that wasn't much of an argument, was it?"

"But why trouble to say anything?"

"Oh, I'm the talkative type."

Surprisingly, Alice shook her head. Brent Halleck certainly extended himself to be difficult.

At last the Canfield game was finished and Alice excused herself and went upstairs.

The lightning and thunder continued an accompaniment to the rain and it seemed as if the wind grew stronger, when at last Alice crawled into bed.

But Alice was tired and the storm did not keep her awake.

The full fury of the storm struck after midnight. Alice awakened to a stunning thunderclap and a world gone livid. The lividness vanished as the lightning flickered out. Thunder trailed off in a growling rumble, like the voice of a drunken giant lurching away cursing.

For a moment she lay there, taut and quivering. The blast had apparently wrenched her nerves into a knot. Gradually she relaxed, turned on her side. The sharp screams came then.

Phony Film 'Housewives' Are Not Phony Enough

A Hollywood glamor gal can now scrub her kitchen floor without pulling down the blind, says a Hollywood actress, who points out that the glamor props of the old-time movie stars are no longer necessary.

Well, given a choice between seeing a beautiful babe in a bathing suit leading a live lion on a leash or a glamor girl with every hair in place and wearing the kind of shoes designed to do justice to her ankles and "house dress" especially designed to set off her figure playing like she is whipping up a two-egg cake, hoeing around a tomato plant or scrubbing the kitchen floor—I'll take the lion on the leash. It's less phony.

• Q's and A's

Q—Has the United States issued any postage stamps honoring a labor leader?

A—A special 3-cent stamp in honor of the 100th birthday anniversary of Samuel Compers, noted American labor leader, has been authorized by the Postmaster General. It is believed to be the first stamp honoring a labor pioneer.

Besides, which, a husband might look a long while at the first picture, on account of the bathing suit, but he'd never think: "Why doesn't my wife ever lead a tiger around on a leash?"

Make 'Em Good and Phony

But, men being less capable of spotting the phony than women, are likely to think when they see Miss Glamor Gal looking delectable while she scrubs a floor. "Why can't my wife look like that when she is hanging out the laundry or shampooing the dishes or cleaning out closets?"

So if we're going to keep on getting phony pictures out of Hollywood—and, of course, we are—let's have them honestly phony.

At least let's have them phony enough so that men married to the ordinary common variety of women can spot them for what they are.

Away with those pictures that give Papa the idea that Miss Hollywood Star can look like Miss Hollywood Star while doing a kind of job that makes his own little woman get dirt marks on her face, a droop to her mouth, and a somewhat baggy look to her practical blue jeans, topped by one of Papa's old shirts.

Social Events

A delightful program of reminiscing was presented Monday afternoon at Sorosis when six members of the club told of the favorite books of their childhood.

The first speaker on the program was Miss Etta Hurley who said that she became a bookworm at a very early age and would dash home from school to curl up in her favorite corner of the big black davenport to read. It was sometimes a little difficult, too, she said, with five brothers and a vivacious sister playing leap-frog or shooting marbles on the living room floor. She added she now could see why the carpet had to be replaced every two years.

Miss Hurley went on to recall her first book from the lending library then in the court house and her pride in the public library we now have because her father was the contractor who built it.

"Little Women" Her Favorite

"Her favorite book was 'Little Women,' she said, in which the mother solved all the teen-age problems. She sketched briefly the characters of the four girls, Meg, who was a satisfactory daughter; Beth, sweet and lovable, who died young; Amy, the family beauty and Jo, the strongest character of them all, who was honest and courageous. Jo's courage was best shown, she said, when she cut her hair and sold it to help the family at a time when girl's did not cut their hair. These friends from the book still live with her, Miss Hurley said, even closer than real friends; for real friends have grown older but the girls in the book 'Little Women' still remain as young friends.

Mrs. Elliott Next Speaker

Mrs. David Elliott, the second speaker, said that she went to the children's room at the library to refresh her memory of her childhood books and she found that her favorite still was "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." She recalled how funny she thought the names of the children were and their costumes of odds and ends. She remembered how badly she felt when Jimmy died and how anxious she was for the beautiful young lady who brought baskets of food and other things to Mrs. Wiggs and her children, to marry her sweetheart and she added: "Of course she did." Mrs. Elliott told a bit of the author of the book, a girl who with her mother kept a giveaway bag in which they put things for the needy. It was in one of the homes where she and her mother went that the author found the inspiration for her book, Mrs. Elliott said. The book was simple, direct, homely and humorous, Mrs. Elliott said and has a philosophy that is still something to strive for.

Miss Blair's Favorites

Third speaker was Miss Jessie Blair. Miss Blair said that she attended kindergarten and one day as they were towing the mark in line they passed a book along for each child to read a little bit but when the book got to her she couldn't read. But she soon learned how after that and she has been reading ever since. Miss Blair said. Her favorites of childhood were "Mother Goose," "Alice in Wonderland" and "Grimm's Fairy Tales." She was almost heartbroken, she said, when she came home one day and found that her father had given those three books away. "But I thought you had outgrown them," he apologized. And she added "As soon as I was grown and had money of my own I bought those three books." Miss Blair said she was very romantic and she liked the stories that had a prince and princess in them who married and lived happily ever after.

The Russian princesses always wore rubies, Miss Blair said, and perfume of stephanotis and she was so happy one year at Christmas to receive a bottle of stephanotis perfume. But she said, "I never saw the flower stephanotis until a year ago."

Miss Blair said that her father had many books but they were books for adults. Among the children's books was "Mother Goose Melodies," which was very pious with a moral on every page. Every home with children, however, she said, had either the publication "St. Nicholas" or the "Youth's Companion."

Book Mrs. Benson's Place

Mrs. T. W. Croxton read a paper prepared by Mrs. Joe Benson in the absence of Mrs. Benson. Mrs. Benson said that as long as she could remember the house on her grandfather's farm was her home. Her grandfather, with closely clipped mustache and carefully groomed goatee, was a scholar, she said, and he wanted all of his children to be scholars, too. Being the fourth in the family she never got any books first hand. They were always handed down from the older children. But she recalled how they had gone to town in the wagon, how she had played in the store until train time and then grandfather arrived with his straw suitcase that she knew held treasures. The ride home seemed endless, she said, and on reaching there she followed him up to his room where he opened the suitcase and took out a gift for her. It was her first new book. It was a book of nursery rhymes, she said, and she had a little trouble figuring out what some of them meant and why the people in the nursery rhymes did the things they did, but she loved the book nevertheless.

Brought Books to Sedalia

The next speaker was Miss Nettie Lamm, who said that her mother brought her books with her when she came to Sedalia. Her father was very fond of books, too, she said and her mother would often jokingly say that they would have books if they didn't have bread. Miss Lamm said that as a child she liked most of all "Mother Goose." Books for children, she said, did not appear very early and the first masterpiece was "Alice in Wonderland," adding that it was a nonsense book but even Webster didn't give a good definition for nonsense. She stated that she thought illustrations had a lot to do with whether children liked books or not. If they liked the pictures they liked the books. She brought a good deal of laughter when she read a few paragraphs from an old classic for children. The book was filled with incidents of a very stupid family and one incident Miss Lamm read about was the buying of a piano for the daughter of the family and when it was delivered it was placed with the keyboard toward the window. The family didn't know what to do so somebody decided they could raise the window and Elizabeth Eliza could sit on the piazza and play the piano through the window which she did until cold weather. The idea was all right until then and finally Elizabeth Eliza told the Lady from Philadelphia who suggested they turn the piano around. They hadn't thought of that. One of the boys said they couldn't turn it around because it was a square piano — but that was what they finally did.

She Liked "Raggedy Ann"

Mrs. Kenneth U. Love was the last speaker and chose as her favorite book, "Raggedy Ann," which her mother read to her so often before she was old enough to read that by the time she could read she knew it by heart, she said. When she tried to find the book "Raggedy Ann" she found that there were many other books by that name but not the original she had as a child and finally she borrowed it from a stranger. It is the story of Marcella, who found in the attic of her grandmother's home an old rag doll, Mrs. Love said, and although it was minus a shoe button eye and losing its stuffing Marcella thought it was lovely. Grandmother told her it was her own doll, fifty years before. She sewed it up for Marcella, Mrs. Love said, and hunted up a shoe button for an eye. "Where, today," queried Mrs. Love, "do you suppose a grandmother would find a black shoe button?" There was a lesson in every chapter, the speaker said, but it was a sugar coated moral because Raggedy Ann was always cheerful, always kind and had a loving heart. Mrs. Love said she thought the story appealed to her because the dolls came to life when nobody was around and every little girl likes to feel that their dolls are real and alive.

Mrs. Philip McLaughlin introduced the speakers.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, vice president in the absence of the president Mrs. H. E. Lindstrom.

A luncheon preceded the meeting.

Mrs. James McNeil announced the speaker next week will be Miss Hazel Palmer of this city, who will speak on "Expanding Horizons."

Miss Marjorie Wolkamp, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wolkamp of Stillwell, Kas., became the bride of Mr. Norbert Koechner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Koechner of Tipton at 8:30 Saturday morning, January 7th at the Holy Rosary church in Wea, Kas. The Rev. S. J. Loncaric read the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Lawrence Barker sang the nuptial mass and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a marquisette yolk and a lace bertha. Rows of ruffled lace and satin formed a panel down the front of the gown and the lace trimmed skirt lengthened into an aisle wide train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a halo of seed pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Ruth Schrick of Kansas City, Kas., attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a blue satin gown styled with a marquisette yolk and a bouffant and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Kathleen Wolkamp, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a pink satin gown identical to that of the maid of honor and carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations. Both wore matching sweetheart marquisette hats.

Carolyn Soetoert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Soetoert of Shawnee, Kas., the flower girl, wore a floor length gown of white satin. She carried a miniature bouquet of pink carnations and in her hair wore a halo of pink carnations.

Jimmy Koechner carried the rings.

Mr. Melvin Koechner of Cameron, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

Mr. Harry Wolkamp, Jr., brother of the bride, was groomsmen and Mr. Cecil Koechner and Mr. David Class ushered.

A dinner was served at noon at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother chose a navy blue crepe dress for the occasion and the bridegroom's mother chose aquamarine faille. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

In the evening a reception was held in the parish hall at Wea.

Mrs. J. B. Hancock, of 1307 South Moniteau avenue, was hostess on Saturday evening for the birthday of her husband, J. E. Hancock. A turkey dinner was served with all the trimmings, including oysters and other goodies.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zink and two children, Cheryl and Bob, Jr.; Mrs. W. T. Stephens and daughter, Miss Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Creston Clark, Mrs. Katherine Stevens, Mrs. Grace Leiter, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hancock, Mrs. Amanda Close whose birthday fell on the same day, was a special guest. During the evening, "Canasta" was played. Mr. Hancock received a number of birthday gifts.

J. W. Gulick was honored on his 67th birthday Sunday when the following relatives and friends visited his home at Otterville: Mrs. Mamie Morrison and son, Earl; Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler, Mrs. Kathleen Jackson, and daughter, Shirley of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Aubra Lampton and two granddaughters, Dorothy and Geraldine of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gulick and children, Melvin, Janice of Versailles, Mr. and Mrs. Vincil Shroat, Fortuna, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fowler and son, Paul Ray, Mr. and Mrs. George Peoples, daughter, Bulah May, Mr. and Mrs. Oland Morrison and children, Gloria, Anna, J. L., Dan and Jimmy of Syracuse.

A contributive dinner with five birthday cakes were served.

The Cosmetologists of Sedalia will have a banquet at 7:00 o'clock tonight in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel with the president, Mrs. Tish Taylor, presiding. This is the Sedalia unit of the National Hairdressers Association.

A dance routine by Joan Barton will open the program after which Mrs. W. C. Askew will show pictures of her trip to Hawaii last summer and will give a talk on her trip.

CHURCH NEWS

A new Sunday school class has been organized in the LaMonte Christian church, consisting of the young married people of the church. They had a chili and pie supper in the basement of the church Friday evening. A good crowd was present and they realized $44. The new class has been named, "Christian Builders Class."

The Character Builders Bible Class of the Methodist church, of LaMonte, met at the home of Mrs. P. S. Craig, January 17. The president, Miss Connie Nash, presided, and Mrs. Mitchens gave the devotional. Mrs. R. B. Burke read a book, "Is Prayer Intelligent?" The hostess served angel food cake, nut-bread and coffee.

The Willing Workers Sunday School Class of the LaMonte Methodist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Wade, January 20. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Leonard Reavis, president, Mrs. H. A. Wade, vice-president, and Mrs. James Roberts, secretary-treasurer.

Some 10,000,000 gallons of frozen concentrated orange juice were produced in the 1949 season.

Graduated From Lincoln U

Miss Louella Jefferson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jefferson, 602 West Cooper street, was graduated from Lincoln university, at Jefferson City with the mid-term graduating class, receiving her B.S. degree in home economics.

Progressive Club Met

The LaMonte Progressive Farmer's club held its regular monthly meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Friday evening, January 20.

The vice-president, Fred Weikal, presided over the business meeting. The February meeting will be held with Mr. and Mrs. George Landes.

Donnell-Kem In St. Louis February 10

By Charles Haslet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Senators Donnell and Kem, Missouri Republicans, said today they will attend the annual meeting of the Missouri Republican Editorial Association in St. Louis Feb. 10.

They will also attend the Lincoln day Republican dinner there the following day.

Donnell plans to leave Feb. 8 and be in St. Louis Feb. 10 for a "kick-off" luncheon for his campaign for reelection.

He said he has named Frederick Stueck of St. Louis, his campaign manager when he was elected governor, to pilot the senate campaign and that I is actually already under way.

Kem To Make Talks

Kem plans to make several speeches in the state.

He will speak on "let's not substitute government for God" at the second Presbyterian church in St. Louis, Feb. 12.

On Feb. 15 he is to talk on "government spending at home and abroad" before the lions club in Hannibal, Mo. The following day he is to discuss "American dollars for British socialism and the future of the United States" at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at St. Louis.

While in St. Louis and Hannibal, Kem plans to set up what he calls his "listening posts" when he will receive visitors and learn their views on public issues. He has not set the times and places for these meetings, however.

Four Deaths Due Tragedies

By The Associated Press

Four persons died violently in a freak automobile fire and an explosion in Kansas and Missouri yesterday.

The former mayor of Joplin, Mo., and another man lost their lives when an oil fuel line to a furnace exploded while they were repairing it with a blow torch.

Southwest of Fort Scott, Kas., six-year-old Murrell Laon Koppa perished in a flaming automobile turned over on its side in a ditch.

His sister, Thelma Nadine, 5, died of burns several hours later.

The dead at Joplin was F. Taylor Snapp, 79, mayor of Joplin from 1922 to 1926, and Delmar C. Sutton, maintenance man in an apartment, who was helping Snapp repair his furnace.

Missouri Men For Farm Plan

By Charles Haslet

AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Two Missouri congressmen expressed hope today that the Brannan farm plan would be given a trial run by Congress soon.

They are Reps. Christopher (D-Mo.), a southwestern Missouri farmer, and Sullivan (D-Mo.), a St. Louis lawyer.

"In less than two years we will have to give the Brannan plan a trial in my opinion," Christopher told a reporter. "I hope that it will be in less than two years."

Sullivan said the Brannan plan would permit sale of farm production at lower prices to consumers and promise a fair return to producers. Under the present program, he said, the market price is kept up by buying surpluses, much is wasted and consumers have to buy at high prices.

"The present farm program is not the answer to the problem," Sullivan asserted.

"It places too heavy a load upon the taxpayer, with a waste that is disgraceful."

"To me, the Brannan plan is logical and I think it may be the answer."

Christopher said the nation also must preserve its soil through good farming practices and soil conservation.

"I think the time will come when the deed to a tract of land will not carry with it the right to destroy that land through wrong farming practices," he said.

OBITUARIES

Miss Mamie Susan Stephens

Miss Mamie Susan Stephens, 73 years old, a life long resident of Tipton, died at 12:00 o'clock this morning at Latham sanitarium, California, Mo., where she had been a patient since January 16 and underwent a major operation on January 18.

The body is at the Richards funeral home in Tipton where funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Interment will be in Moreau cemetery.

Miss Stephens was born at the family home place two miles east of Tipton on November 30, 1876, a daughter of Charles Wood and Mary Mathilda Stephens. She lived at the family home all of her life except for less than a year when she lived in Tipton.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Ethel Stephens and Miss Ollie Stephens, both of the home; two brothers, A. M. and C. T. Stephens, both of Tipton; two nieces, Mrs. Floyd E. White and Mrs. H. C. Palmer and two nephews, Charles L. Stephens and Jack W. Stephens. Her parents and a brother, Ernest Milton, who died at the age of 18 months, preceded her in death.

Miss Stephens was a member and took an active part in the Donley Home Improvement club. She was from a well-known Tipton family and for a number of years, with her two sisters, successfully operated the farm on which they lived.

Stresses Solvency Security

opportunity, and of good will to all the citizens of our country and to nations around the world.

Praise To Champ Clark

"I am happy for the opportunity to come here and pay tribute to some of the men who have made Missouri famous. Among your great men was the former Senator Champ Clark who, in 1912 in an historic Democratic convention, was defeated for the nomination for President. If he had been nominated then as he should have been, as a nation, would never have undertaken to march out of this great and blessed country on a crusade "to make the world safe for democracy," and we would have been saved from this web of economic and political confusion which plagues us today.

"More than that, hundreds of thousands of fine Americans sacrificed to vague and idealistic causes, might still be walking the streets and fields of this land. I am reminded of this because in later years Senator Bennett Clark and myself were joined in a common cause fighting those who would again plunge America deeper into miseries of the nations of Europe.

Commends Senator Donnell

I am doubly happy to come to Missouri to pay a word of tribute to the Republican representative in the United States Congress, especially to Senator Kem and Senator Donnell, with whom I have had association. I labored in the Senate for two years as a colleague with Senator Donnell. He is one of the outstanding men in the United States Senate because of his indomitable zeal, his courage and his honesty, qualities which also are too infrequently found in our public representatives. If you do not always agree with him in his efforts, remember he is more interested in his conscience than in his popularity. He would rather be right than be President. America needs Forrest Donnell in the United States Senate.

"Now you may be able this early to realize that I haven't come to Missouri "to give Congress hell" or belittle the effort in which honest men are engaged.

"The inspiration of this meeting tonight is to honor the birthday of a loveable gentleman, a courageous soul, a brave soldier, a towering statesman, the twenty-fifth President of the United States—William McKinley.

"Now do not get the idea that because we are thinking for a moment of the past, that the Republican party is a party of old fogy ideas. God forbid that we should ever forget the lessons learned in the days when Americans enjoyed the golden years of prosperity and peace and the respect of all the nations of the earth. Do not underestimate the old ideas, the good old days, and the old men.

"Power By Mandate"

"Our government today is in the control of an administration which did not receive a majority of the votes cast in the last election. It is in power by the mandate of not much more than one-fourth of the qualified voters of America. Our challenge is to arouse the people who love America to share in the responsibility of this program.

"For the Republican party I plead guilty to the charge that we in these sad years have not made plain our stand on the tremendously important issues before the country. We have too often heard it said that if we are to have new deal socialism and a welfare state, I want it to be under the Democratic new deal party and not under the Republican party with this long history of sound, patriotic liberal Americanism.

"I have not come one thousand miles to bring to you a note of pessimism or of recriminations about the mistakes of the past. I shall say the Republican party can win control of the next Congress and win the national election of 1952.

"May I add: If the mistakes of the present administration continue, if we proceed much further "along the slippery road to misery," I am confident the Republican party will win these great objectives in 1950 and 1952. Our duty is to make the position and objectives of the Republican party clear beyond confusion or doubt. We shall answer the longing of the great body of Americans who have only one motive—to serve America.

"Burden Of Debt"

"Every sane citizen of America is concerned with the huge mountain of debt which is being heaped upon the backs of our citizens. The figures present a startling and alarming situation.

"In the less than twenty years of the Democratic new deal the national debt has been increased from a few billions to a quarter of a trillion of dollars, if you know what that means.

"The number of civilian employed in the operation of our government twenty years ago was 600,000 persons; today more than two million persons are employed in the various government agencies. The annual cost of government has increased from three billions of dollars to approximately fifty billions of dollars. To meet this heavy burden of cost, one-fourth of the productive capacity of America is consumed by government.

"The cost of operating our government for the year ending June 30th this year will be over 50

Four Deaths Due Tragedies

By The Associated Press

Four persons died violently in a freak automobile fire and an explosion in Kansas and Missouri yesterday.

The former mayor of Joplin, Mo., and another man lost their lives when an oil fuel line to a furnace exploded while they were repairing it with a blow torch.

Southwest of Fort Scott, Kas., six-year-old Murrell Laon Koppa perished in a flaming automobile turned over on its side in a ditch.

His sister, Thelma Nadine, 5, died of burns several hours later.

The dead at Joplin was F. Taylor Snapp, 79, mayor of Joplin from 1922 to 1926, and Delmar C. Sutton, maintenance man in an apartment, who was helping Snapp repair his furnace.

Missouri Men For Farm Plan

By Charles Haslet

AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(P)—Two Missouri congressmen expressed hope today that the Brannan farm plan would be given a trial run by Congress soon.

They are Reps. Christopher (D-Mo.), a southwestern Missouri farmer, and Sullivan (D-Mo.), a St. Louis lawyer.

"In less than two years we will have to give the Brannan plan a trial in my opinion," Christopher told a reporter. "I hope that it will be in less than two years."

Sullivan said the Brannan plan would permit sale of farm production at lower prices to consumers and promise a fair return to producers. Under the present program, he said, the market price is kept up by buying surpluses, much is wasted and consumers have to buy at high prices.

"The present farm program is not the answer to the problem," Sullivan asserted.

"It places too heavy a load upon the taxpayer, with a waste that is disgraceful."

"To me, the Brannan plan is logical and I think it may be the answer."

Christopher said the nation also must preserve its soil through good farming practices and soil conservation.

"I think the time will come when the deed to a tract of land will not carry with it the right to destroy that land through wrong farming practices," he said.

A. P. Supervisor Dead of Heart Attack

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31.—(P)—Norville W. (Jack) Cook, night traffic supervisor of the Associated Press here, was found dead—apparently of heart attack—in his home yesterday.

Cook, 50, of Kansas City, Kas., had been with the Associated Press 24 years. He worked Saturday and had not been ill. Sunday and Monday were his days off.

His survivors include his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Georgia Clark; one grandson and his mother, Mrs. Margaret Cook.

College Choir Here Tuesday

The Morningside College choir, composed of 60 voices and directed by Paul MacCollin, will be presented to the public Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Fourth Street Methodist church.

"Paul MacCollin has been identified with the progress of music in the Midwest for the past thirty years as director of the Morningside Conservatory of Music, Okoboji, Summer Music camp and founder and conductor of the Morningside College choir."

"Leading music critics have been unanimous in praise of his work as a conductor and vocal teacher."

"His technical mastery of the art of a cappella singing is exemplified in the superb performances of the Morningside College choir."

No admission will be taken at the door nor will tickets be sold.

also very likely working toward construction of H-bombs.

There have been reports that the projected hydrogen bomb would require an ordinary atom bomb to set it off. That it then would duplicate on a small scale some of the forces at work in the sun.

Within the atomic energy commission itself and among some atomic scientists, a divergence of opinion has been reported. Some scientists are said to feel that the moral implications of building an H-bomb are so important that every effort should be made first to outlaw weapons of mass destruction through agreement with Russia.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Smith of 1117 West Sixteenth street have returned from a three weeks' visit with their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin E. Smith and Jack, Sue and Judy of Kansas City. Will File Suit In California

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(P)—Ingrid Bergman's husband will not fight her Mexican divorce action, says his spokesman. But the spokesman implied that the husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, instead will file suit for divorce in California.

In a statement, John Vernon, the physician's personal representative, said Lindstrom "has no intention of appearing in the Mexican proceedings, but will leave all issues to the California courts."

Vernon admitted the implication of a California divorce suit, regardless of the outcome of the Mexican proceedings.

In Juarez, Mex., Miss Bergman's attorney, William A. Cooke, said that just because a suit might be filed in the United States, her suit in Mexico will not be dismissed.

Miss Bergman filed suit in Mexico last week. She reportedly plans to wed Roberto Rossellini, Italian director for whom she recently made a picture on the Mediterranean Island of Stromboli.

Mr. Hartman is in fairly good health considering his advanced age.

Former Minister Convicted BENTON, Ill., Jan. 31—(P)—A circuit court jury has convicted a former Baptist pastor of statutory rape of a 14-year-old member of his congregation.

The jury, which returned its verdict Saturday, fixed James L. Pettit's punishment at two years in prison.

Pauline Fowler, who is eight months pregnant, testified Pettit, 52, told her their relations were "a matter of the flesh only and do not bother the soul."

She testified the intimacies began last summer when he was pastor of her church at nearby Thompsonville. Under cross examination, she denied having relations with any other men.

Potter Palmer Mansion Razed

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(P)—Razing of the famous Potter Palmer mansion began Monday. An apartment building will be erected on the site.

The red stone castle at the corner of Lake Shore Drive and Schiller street has long been dark and silent, but a reminder of the gay, international society life which once centered there.

A 21-story building will replace it. The $7,000,000 structure will contain 740 small apartments of from two to five rooms each. Rent will be about $40 a room per month.

The old turreted residence, sitting back in the center of spacious lawns, was built in 1882 at a cost of more than $1,000,000. The first elevator to be put in a private residence in Chicago went into the mansion, which was used by the Red Cross during the war.

Mrs. Ida Eaton left the first of the week for New Orleans, La. where she is a guest of her son William and his family. She expects to be there for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Meyer attended the funeral services Saturday of Mrs. Ida Klosterman of Concordia.

George Foster of Leavenworth, Kas., who was here to attend the funeral services of his brother E. E. Foster, returned to his home on Sunday. While here he stayed with the Foster family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foster and children, Virginia Sue and Gary of Hutchinson, Kas., returned to their home on Monday. They called here during the middle of the week to be with his father, E. E. Foster, who died Thursday morning at Bothwell hospital in Sedalia.

Miss Ella Dee Runge, a freshman at Central college, Fayette, was the soloist at the S. C. O. Monday night. Miss Runge has sung here numerous times. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Warren Briggs of the Wesley Foundation in Columbia, who spoke on Christianity vs. Communism.

Supplies Potatoes Go To Relief Agencies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(P)—The agriculture department said Monday about 15 carloads of surplus potatoes have moved to domestic relief agencies, public institutions and the school lunch program under its newly inaugurated "give-away" program.

Four carloads went to flood stricken areas in southeast Missouri and three to mining areas in southwestern Pennsylvania, where many striking coal miners have been certified for public relief aid.

The remainder have gone to public institutions and the school lunch program.

Soybeans Free Of Government Controls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(P)—The agriculture department announced Monday that farmers will be allowed to grow soybeans this year free of government controls.

Accidents On Slippery Streets

The light dry drifting snow that fell Monday afternoon caused many of Sedalia's streets to become slick and caused several minor collisions at intersections.

At 3:17 o'clock a 1937 Oldsmobile sedan driven by David O. Thomson of Sedalia and a 1933 Chevrolet truck driven by Eugene Hill of 310 West Morgan street were involved at the intersection of Third street and Massachusetts avenue. The Olds had a headlight and front fender damaged and the truck had a damaged running board.

A 1933 Dodge sedan driven by Philip J. White of route 5 and a 1938 Ford truck driven by Mrs. John C. England of route 2 collided at 3:27 o'clock. The White car was damaged on the rear left fender while the Ford received little damage.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

"WILD WEST SHOW" was a phrase to thrill every youngster of the early 1900's. Their hero was the old Indian fighter, Buffalo Bill, originator of the Wild West show. By the turn of the century, his once-little group of cowboys and Indians had grown into a tremendous spectacle called "Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show and International Congress of Rough Riders." The "Rough Riders" were some of Teddy Roosevelt's veterans and daredevil horsemen imported from abroad. The show toured Europe, playing many command performances before royalty. Buffalo Bill is shown here with one of his early star attractions, Sitting Bull, famous Indian chief. Despite his great successes, Buffalo Bill was improvident and died in poverty in 1917.

Belief War Is More Remote

Caution Voiced As Possibility On No Warning

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson soberly cautioned Monday night an attack on this country "could come from the opposite hemisphere without warning and with unpredictable fury."

He put this warning into his first annual report, in which he noted parenthetically that Russia now has the secret of atomic explosives.

But at another point Johnson expressed belief that the prospect of war is diminishing, despite the Russian attitude. He wrote:

"While we must recognize the bitter truth that there can be no real peace and security so long as our free world is blighted by the sinister shadow of an aggressive totalitarian power which has persistently refused to cooperate with its Democratic neighbors and which has repeatedly demonstrated hostility to our form of government, we have good reason to believe that the prospects of averting another world conflict are steadily improving."

The military strength of the United States, he declared, has much to do with discouraging a venture into a shooting war by an aggressor nation.

Been Same Unification
Johnson, who on occasions has been reported at odds with the state department over diplomatic-military policy, said there has been an "intimate unification of separate lines of governmental activity in the formulation and conduct of foreign policy."

This, he said, has been accomplished through the national security council "which brings to bear on fundamental problems the considered judgment of the state department, the national military establishment and other agencies."

With the exception of the footnote reference to the Russian bomb announcement by President Truman last September, Johnson's report covers the fiscal year which ended last June 30. Thus reports on expenditures, military strength and other factors are outdated by subsequently published information.

The report also contained the reports of the three armed forces made by Secretary of the Army, Gray, Secretary of the Navy, Matthews and Secretary of the Air Force, Symington. This in itself, Johnson claimed, was an "example of unification."

Without discussing details of the bitter quarrel which broke out last spring and still goes on between some Navy admirals and the defense department and Air Force, Johnson asserted:

"I do not discount the damage done to unification of the armed forces by interservice controversies. At the same time, I believe that the extent of these conflicts has been exaggerated. I further believe that preponderant numbers in all the services appreciate the need for unification, and, in actuality, unification of the armed forces is an accomplished fact today in many areas of activity."

First Trickle Of Arms Soon On The Way Eastward

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Millions of dollars already have been spent in assembling American arms for western Europe under the new mutual defense program, and the first trickle will soon begin moving eastward.

First effects probably will be more important in the political and economic fields than in a military way. A billion dollars, the amount so far appropriated, won't do much toward preparing for war.

Secretary of Defense Johnson points out in his annual report that no "immediate or spectacular results" are to be expected. First shipments merely activate a program which it is hoped, over a period of years, will eventually present an aggressor—which now means Russia—with a defense system sufficient to discourage attack or, if an attack is made anyway, to hold until the United States can mobilize and bring its strength to bear.

England, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Italy form the line with something yet to be planned for holding the vital West German industrial area. The program has two facets.

The countries are expected to provide their own internal security. This is of particular importance in France, where there is heavy Communist infiltration, and which must provide the major manpower for general defense at the outbreak of any war.

This goes hand in hand with individual defense of coasts and harbors, borders and the like, and against aerial assault.

Common Defense System
All this, under the agreement, gradually blends into a common defense system, perhaps a forward one with the line in Germany. Where this line will be, how it will be defended and by whom, and what the role of the West German republic shall be, will be a recurrent problem as the program develops. If war should appear to be approaching, the question of rearming Germany will become vital. But that is some time off, if allied diplomats read the stars aright.

Little or nothing could be done about rearming Germany now anyway. Franco Spain's fairly obvious desire to enter the western fold, and allied need of the Spanish army and the strategic assets of the Iberian peninsula, may combine to five Spain's role before the time for decision on Germany. For the immediate future the requirements of the allies themselves are sufficient to occupy all attention.

The military results of the alliance are, then, a matter for the future with results discernible, as Secretary Johnson puts it, "as it gains experience and fosters mutual understanding among its members."

Arrival of the first shipments of arms from America, however, will have an immediate impact in other ways. The Communists, as already promised in Italy, can be expected to make a ship-by-ship demonstration against the program, serving to remind Europeans that their recently-improved economic condition offers no ground for complacency in the cold war.

It should also serve to bring European capital and business skills out of hiding, improving business with the knowledge that they are under the protection of the United States, and with the feeling that growing strength defers the possibility of war's destruction.

Two Fatally Injured In Blast
JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 31—(AP)—F. Taylor Snapp, 79 years old, former mayor of Joplin, died in a hospital here Monday night, the second victim of a terrific explosion in the basement of the Snapp home and apartment house here.

Severe burns over his body and shock caused his death.

Delmar O. Sutton, maintenance man for a nearby apartment house, died shortly after the explosion while on the way to a hospital in an ambulance. He suffered a crushed chest, head injuries and severe burns.

Firemen believe the explosion was caused by fumes from the fuel line to an oil furnace in the basement. The fuel line was ripped from the ground for a distance of 30 feet from the house.

Snapp was mayor of Joplin from 1922 to 1926. He was connected with the Citizens State Bank here many years and owned considerable Joplin real estate. He was a 33rd degree Mason.

Commodities At Top Prices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The government Monday offered for sale in this country some of the $3,700,000,000 worth of farm commodities it acquired to support prices. It offered no bargains, at least for the present.

The department of agriculture attached price tags which mostly are higher than current commercial market levels. Only peanuts were offered at current prices. Wheat was priced about 27 cents a bushel above commercial quotations.

The products offered for sale are wheat, barley, oats, corn, dry edible beans, flaxseed, raw linseed oil, peanuts, cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk solids.

The amounts varied. Included were 15,000,000 bushels of wheat, 100,000,000 of corn, 25,000,000 pounds of cheese and 55,000,000 pounds of creamery butter.

The department said the knowledge that such stocks are available should be helpful to buyers in normal commercial operations. It noted that if commercial prices go up, government stocks are available at prices fixed today.

The list of commodities and prices will be effective until March 1. A new list will be issued each month.

In general, the prices quoted were as low as the law allows Congress last year enacted legislation which requires that sales in the U. S. of surpluses shall be at least five per cent above prices support rates, plus reasonable carrying charges.

Rests Well in County Jail

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 31—(AP)—Carol Paught, who has impressed courtroom spectators with her calm demeanor during her trial for the mercy killing of her father, rested well in the Fairfield county jail during the court's week-end recess.

Dr. William Alderson, pastor of Bridgeport's First Methodist church, said after a visit with the tall, blond, 21-year-old defendant yesterday that she showed no sign of strain, seemed to be in good spirits and appeared to be rested.

Only clergymen may visit the jail on Sundays, but Carol's mother, Mrs. Mary Nolan Paught, came to the jail Saturday.

Mrs. Paught is scheduled to be the second defense witness when the trial resumes tomorrow.

The third may be Carol herself, charged with second degree murder, the penalty for which is life imprisonment, her defense is temporary insanity based on a contention that she did not know what she was doing when she shot her father, Stamford Police Sergeant Carl Paught, with his own service pistol last September. The shooting occurred in Stamford hospital, a few hours after Carol had learned from Dr. William E. Smith that her father was doomed to die a painful death from cancer.

College Freshmen See President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—A couple of college freshmen who hitchhiked in from Duke University, Durham, N. C., called at the White House Monday and saw President Truman.

Of course, it helped that one of them, William Bundschu, is from the President's home town, Independence, Mo., and his folks know Mr. Truman.

Along with him was John Carver of Hume, Mo.

The boys said Mr. Truman talked to them a little about independence, about water shortages in places like New York and Boston, and handed them a collection of souvenirs. They came
